"Technology is only technology if it was invented after you were born, everything else is just stuff."
Alan Kay

"-far from trying to create pedagogy anew – we should be in the business of locating the new technologies within proven practices and models of teaching."

Making Graphics from Screen shots

On a PC, depending on the version of Windows you have it may or may not come with a snipping tool that is one option.

Another option is using the print screen button. When you hit the print screen button it takes a picture of your whole screen, and copies that screen shot to your clipboard. You then have to paste it into another program like paint, or Photoshop to save it as a picture file.

If you hit alt and print screen, it will take a picture of whatever active window is open.

On a Mac, there are two ways to capture what is on your screen as a picture file, which will be a .jpg file.

1. Command+Shift+3 will capture your whole screen area and make it a jpg.

2. Command+Shift+4 will give you a crosshair cursor that you simply drag a box around what you would like to take a picture of.
